DEDICATION

To my one and only daughter Makunda and my nephew Lolo, both of whom passed away at the height of this research on the 25th of April 2015 in a car accident. I have used my loss as a stepping stone to greater things.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Firstly, I would like to thank my creator for being my guide and shield throughout my studies. Much appreciation goes to the staff and the great intellectual minds at the NWU (faculty of law) Potchefstroom Campus for their unwavering support, courtesy and concern over my work. At the heart of this study lies the expertise of Dr HJ Lubbe, who took time and exercised his patience with me, in moulding my research capabilities over the past two years. I am sincerely grateful for the effort you put in. Secondly, to Dr M Barnard, you came through for me at a time when I felt stuck and you guided me in how I ought to lay out my ideas. You have been supportive of my personal growth and have motivated me to pursue my academic career. I also extend my gratitude to Prof Stephen De la Harpe, who always encouraged me to keep going, even when I felt like giving up.

To George and Lucy Kawenda, my parents - I thank you for always being there for me. Thank you for the financial, moral and spiritual support. I owe much to you guys.

To Fungai Mahiya, Getrude Shoko, Takudzwa Taruza, Majory Dzingai, Tirivenyu Mutema, Caiphas Soyapi with whom I walked this journey thank you for hearing me out and giving me assistance when needed.

ABSTRACT

The dire African economic situation has been a perennial problem for the past six decades. Many problems emanate from slow economic growth, such as poverty and unemployment. There is a need for a collective effort to ensure economic growth, which would be the most viable solution to these problems, and the key to such a collective effort is regional economic integration (REI). This study examines REI within the legal context. It tests the proposition that the law can be used as a means to achieving REI. At the heart of this proposition lies the legal challenge that comes with the different approaches to legal reception and how they impede the realisation of REI. An analysis is performed of the theories related to legal reception, which include the monist, the dualist and the hybrid theories. REI was embraced in Europe and has yielded fruitful results. There is no doubt that the collective efforts to realise economic growth in other continents stems from the inspiration of the European example. Europe is used in this study to illustrate how the obstacles that accompany the different approaches to legal reception may be superseded. The study examines how the law was used in Europe as a means to attain REI. An attempt is then made to understand REI from an African perspective by setting out the legal framework and its shortcomings. Attention is paid to Africa's sub-region of Southern Africa, and the study examines legal reception within Southern Africa and how the different approaches to legal reception within the two RECs, the SADC and COMESA, impact upon the realisation of REI. It seeks to evaluate the possibility that the African continent, particularly Southern Africa, may be able to use the law to attain REI. A further analysis is made by examining South Africa's approach to legal reception and how this impacts on the realisation of REI.

OPSOMMING

Die nypende ekonomiese situasie in Afrika het vir die afgelope ses dekades reeds 'n ewigdurende probleem geword. Talle probleme soos armoede en werkloosheid ontstaan weens stadige ekonomiese groei. 'n Kollektiewe poging is noodsaaklik om ekonomiese groei, wat die lewensvatbaarste oplossing vir hierdie probleem sou wees, te verseker, en ook die sleutel tot so 'n kollektiewe poging is streeksekonomiese integrasie (SEI) (regional economic integration – REI). Hierdie studie ondersoek SEI binne die regskonteks. Dit toets die proposisie dat die reg aangewend kan word as 'n wyse om SEI te bewerkstellig. Aan die kern van hierdie proposisie lê die regsuitdaging wat gepaard gaan met die verskillende benaderings tot regsaanvaarding en hoedat dit die bewerkstelling van SEI kniehalter. 'n Analise van die teorieë wat met regsaanvaarding verband hou, is uitgevoer, wat die monis-, die dualis- en die hibried-teorie insluit. SEI is in Europa aanvaar en het vrugbare resultate opgelewer. Daar bestaan geen twyfel daaroor dat die kollektiewe pogings om ekonomiese groei in ander kontinente uit die inspirasie van die Europese voorbeeld voortspruit nie. Europa is in hierdie studie as voorbeeld geneem om te illustreer hoedat die struikelblokke wat met die verskillende benaderings tot regsaanvaarding gepaard gaan, uit die weg geruim kan word. Die studie ondersoek hoedat die reg in Europa benut is as 'n metode om SEI te bewerkstellig. 'n Poging is toe aangewend om SEI vanuit 'n Afrika-perspektief te verstaan deur die regsraamwerk en die tekortkominge daarvan uiteen te sit. Aandag is geskenk aan Afrika se substreek, Suidelike Afrika, en die studie ondersoek regsaanvaarding binne Suidelike Afrika en hoe die verskillende benaderings tot regsaanvaarding binne die twee RECs, SADC en COMESA, 'n impak het op die totstandkoming van SEI. Dit poog om die moontlikheid te ondersoek dat die Afrika-kontinent, in besonder Suidelike Afrika, die reg kan benut om SEI te bewerkstellig. 'n Verdere analise is gedoen deur Suid-Afrika se benadering tot regsaanvaarding te ondersoek en hoedat dit 'n impak het op die totstandkoming van SEI.
